Index

Activities. See Learning activities
Adaptive systems. See Human adaptative systems
Advisory group, for elementary program implementation, 48, 50
Assessment, of high school program, 133-134
Automation unit, for middle school, 92-93

Career outlook, 142
Communication, study of in technology-based education, 179-184
Communication activity, for high school, 126-127
Communication systems, 181 (illus.)
Communication unit, for middle school, 89-91
Competencies, 139-142, 153
Construction, study of in technology-based education 184-188
Construction activity, for high school, 127-128
Construction system, 185 (illus.)
Construction unit, for middle school, 86, 88-89
Content
  for high school program, 111-119, 120-121 (illus.)
  for undergraduate program, 178-179
Content model, 34-35, 53
Content reservoir, 111-112, 114, 116
Content structure, for elementary program, 53-54
Course schedule, for high school, 119, 121 (illus.)
Culture, 16-18
Curriculum
  for middle school, 73-93
  suggestions, 42-44
  for undergraduate program, 174-177, 179-195
Curriculum design, 31-37
Curriculum development subsystem, 102-109
Curriculum elements, of elementary program, 50-52
Curriculum evaluation, 41
Curriculum goals, of elementary program, 52 (table)
Curriculum implementation variables, 31 (table)
Curriculum model. See Content model
Curriculum plan, 37-38
Curriculum rationale, 32-35
Curriculum rationale model, Tyler's, 146
Curriculum webbing/sunburst technique, 58, 59 (illus.)

Dale, E., on productivity of facilitators, 164
Developmental theory, regarding elementary students, 56-57
DeVore, Paul, on technology as a discipline, 23, 28
Discipline. See Intellectual discipline
Doctoral degrees, 214-218

Elementary school technology education, 47-68
  characteristics of, 49 (table)
  curriculum elements, 50-52
  curriculum goals, 52 (table)
  implementation process, 48-68
  media resources, 64
  sources of funding, 65-67
Energy and power unit, in middle school, 83-85
Environment
  and culture, 16-18
  for learning, 158
  See also Facilities
Equipment. See Facilities
Evaluation, 37, 151-152

Index

Activities. See Learning activities
Adaptive systems. See Human adaptative systems
Advisory group, for elementary program implementation, 48, 50
Assessment, of high school program, 133-134
Automation unit, for middle school, 92-93

Career outlook, 142
Communication, study of in technology-based education, 179-184
Communication activity, for high school, 126-127
Communication systems, 181 (illus.)
Communication unit, for middle school, 89-91
Competencies, 139-142, 153
Construction, study of in technology-based education 184-188
Construction activity, for high school, 127-128
Construction system, 185 (illus.)
Construction unit, for middle school, 86, 88-89
Content
  for high school program, 111-119, 120-121 (illus.)
  for undergraduate program, 178-179
Content model, 34-35, 53
Content reservoir, 111-112, 114, 116
Content structure, for elementary program, 53-54
Course schedule, for high school, 119, 121 (illus.)
Culture, 16-18
Curriculum
  for middle school, 73-93
  suggestions, 42-44
  for undergraduate program, 174-177, 179-195
Curriculum design, 31-37
Curriculum development subsystem, 102-109
Curriculum elements, of elementary program, 50-52
Curriculum evaluation, 41
Curriculum goals, of elementary program, 52 (table)
Curriculum implementation variables, 31 (table)
Curriculum model. See Content model
Curriculum plan, 37-38
Curriculum rationale, 32-35
Curriculum rationale model, Tyler's, 146
Curriculum webbing/sunburst technique, 58, 59 (illus.)

Dale, E., on productivity of facilitators, 164
Developmental theory, regarding elementary students, 56-57
DeVore, Paul, on technology as a discipline, 23, 28
Discipline. See Intellectual discipline
Doctoral degrees, 214-218

Elementary school technology education, 47-68
  characteristics of, 49 (table)
  curriculum elements, 50-52
  curriculum goals, 52 (table)
  implementation process, 48-68
  media resources, 64
  sources of funding, 65-67
Energy and power unit, in middle school, 83-85
Environment
  and culture, 16-18
  for learning, 158
  See also Facilities
Equipment. See Facilities
Evaluation, 37, 151-152

Facilitator, 163-164
Facilities
  adapting to curriculum, 198-199 for elementary school, 64 for high school, 131-133
  for middle school, 75
  for teaching training, 166-167
FAM (flexibility, adaptability, and mobility), and planning technology education facilities, 132-133
Feedback, in systems model, 177, 178
Field testing, 40-42
Funding of elementary programs, 65-67 of high school programs, 134
Future orientation, 150-151

Goals
  of elementary program, 52 (table) for prospective teachers, 145-160
  See also Objectives
Graduate level technology education, 201-219
Graduate programs
  doctoral degrees, 214-218
  masters degrees, 205-211
  specialist degrees, 211-214 suggested guidelines, 206 (table)

Havighurst, R.J., on developmental tasks for elementary learners, 56
High school technology education, 95-135 exemplary programs, 116-117 list of objectives, 96-97
  rationale, 96-98
Human adaptive systems, 18-22, 172 ideological, 20-21
  sociological, 20
  technological, 21-22

Ideological systems, 18, 19 (illus.), 20-21, 172
  See also Human adaptive systems
Implementation procedures for, 30-42 process of for elementary program, 48-68 suggestions for, 42-44
Industrial arts programs, problems with, 28-29
Input in curriculum development sub-system, 105 in systems model, 177
Inservice training, 38-40, 104, 106-107
Instruction, for high school technology education, 119, 122-130
Instructional activities. See Learning activities
Instructional materials, 38, 122
Instructional program sub-system, 109-111
Instructional strategies, 122-125, 152 (illus.), 153-158
  See also Teaching/Learning techniques
Instructional technology, 147-148
Intellectual discipline, 22-24
Interdisciplinary activities (units), for elementary school, 57-62
Interdisciplinary curriculum, in middle school, 74 (illus.), 77-78

Jackson's Mill industrial arts curriculum theory applied to high school instruction, 122 applied to middle school program, 80 applied to undergraduate teacher education program, 171, 172, 177 six classes of input, 105 and technology education curriculum design, 32-33, 35, 36, 37

Junior high school technology education. See Middle/junior high school technology education

Lauda/McCrory. See Content model Learning activities determining types of, 35-36 for elementary students, 55-56, 58, 60-64 for high school students, 125-130 for middle school students, 75, 76-77, 78, 86, 88-89, 90-91, 92 for undergraduates levels I and II, 180, 182-184, 186-189, 191-193, 194-195 level III, 196-198
Lifelong learning, 158-160

Manufacturing, study of in technology-based education, 188-193
Manufacturing activity, for high school, 128
Manufacturing system, 190 (illus.)
Manufacturing unit, for middle school, 85-86, 87 (illus.)
Masters degree, 205-211 elective options, 209-211 technical core, 209 technological core, 207-208
Material processing unit, in middle school, 82-83
Materials. See Instructional materials; Media resources
McCrory, D.L., technology education curriculum (content) model, 34-35, 53
Media resources, for elementary programs, 64
See also Instructional materials Middle/junior high school technology education, 70-93 characteristics of curriculum, 73-80 concept and functions of middle school, 70-73 Multidisciplinary activity, for high school, 129-130

Objectives, for high school program, 96-97
Olson, D.W., eight faces of technology model, 81 (illus.), 82, 93
Organizing models (structures), for middle school units, 86, 87 (illus.), 88, 89-90, 91, 92-93
Output, in systems model, 177

Personal theory, 146-147
Problem solving, 58, 60, 162
Process, in systems model, 177
Professional course sequence, 138-168
goals, 145-160
professionalism, 159-160
Project implementation team, for elementary program, 48, 49-50
Project Open in Wetzel County, 117
Psychology screen, in Tyler's model, 146 (illus.), 147

Research, 198
Resources, 64, 111-112

Scope and sequence model, for 4-year undergraduate program, 174-177
Self-concept, 160, 164-165
Sequence. See Professional course sequence; Technical sequence Sequencing of instruction at elementary level, 55-57 at undergraduate level, 165-166

Sequential model, for high school adoption, 117, 119, 120 (illus.)
Skills development of elementary school student, 57 of high school student, 114-115 (illus.)
Sociological systems, 18, 19 (illus.), 20, 172
See also Human adaptive systems
Specialist degrees, 211-214
Standards, for assessing high school programs, 133-134
Standards for Technology Education Programs, 133
Strategies. See Instructional strategies; Teaching/learning techniques Structure, 162-163
Student-directed learning, 142-143
Systems, 19
See also Human adaptive systems; Universal technical systems Systems model for high school industrial arts program, 99-111 in Jackson's Mill theory, 33 for undergraduate curriculum, 177-178
Systems theory, 99

Tables characteristics of the elementary school technology education program, 49 chronological list of selected leaders and their contributions to technology education, 26-27 curriculum goals (of elementary program), 52 curriculum implementation variables, 31
sources of funding, 66
sources of learning activities (elementary), 62-63 suggested guidelines for graduate programs, 206
Teacher goals. See Goals
Teacher preparation, 142-143, 160-166, 171-199
Teaching/learning techniques, 156-158
See also Instructional strategies
Teaching units, in middle school, 80-93
See also Learning activities
Technical core, for masters degree, 209
Technical means, 21
Technical sequence, 174-199
Technical systems, 95
Technological core, for masters degree, 207-208
Technological literacy, 22, 134
Technological systems, 18, 19 (illus.), 21-22, 172
See also Human adaptive systems
Technology
definitions of, 21
dimensions of, 54 (illus.)
as a discipline, 22-24
Olson's Eight Faces of, 81 (illus.), 82, 93
Technology education
curriculum design, 31-37 elementary school programs, 47-68 graduate level programs, 201-219 high school programs, 95-135 implementation steps, 30-42 list of leaders, 26-27 (table) middle/junior high school programs, 70-93
rationale, 15-44
student gains, 30
undergraduate professional sequence, 138-168 undergraduate technical sequence, 171-199
Technology education committee, and high school programs, 102-104, 106

Transportation, study of in technology-based education, 193-195
Transportation activity, for high school, 129
Transportation system, 194 (illus.)
Transportation unit, in middle school, 91-92
Triad High School, 116-117
Tyler, R.W., curriculum rationale model, 46

Undergraduate technology education professional sequence, 138-168
technical sequence, 171-199
Universal technical systems, 33, 173, 178, 179

Values, 148-150
Value system, 116
Vertical integration, of middle school program, 74 (illus.), 78-80

White, L.A., on human adaptive systems, 17-18, 20
Wild Rose High School, 116-117